

Give Us Action, Not Words

AS THIS issue of Maclean's goes to press, British and French armies are fighting desperately to stem or elude the German sweep along the coast of the English Channel.

What the weeks to come have in store, no man can foretell. But the people of Britain are digging in to fight an aerial, and even a sea-borne, invasion which may be launched at any moment from across that narrow strip of sea.

It is a grim hour, yet one in which we can take heart. For, from the bitter lessons of the initial onslaught we know the worst and how it must be met.

Canadians now know the necessity for swift, unrelenting effort in two directions—FULL ASSISTANCE TO GREAT BRITAIN, AND VIGOROUS MEASURES FOR HOME DEFENSE.

They now know that were the catastrophe of a total British and French defeat permitted, Canada herself might well become the Belgium of the Americas.

They know from the tremendous armament spurt of the United States that the government at Washington is not blind to the possibility that the war might reach across the Atlantic, stepping-stone Iceland and Greenland.

With this knowledge, the people of this Dominion are in unmistakable terms serving notice upon the Prime Minister at Ottawa that no longer will they tolerate uncertainty of action.

Justified Impatience

MR. KING's speech to the House of Commons on May 20, in which he outlined his accelerated war program, failed to remove the "growing feeling of impatience" which the Prime Minister confessed he had sensed.

There are still reasons for doubt in the public mind as to the effectiveness of what is being done.

Mr. King assured the House of Commons that the British Government did not want the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan thrown out of schedule. He stated that the immediate requirements of the United Kingdom Air Force were still being met by the training establishments in the United Kingdom.

Yet dispatches from the front tell of Royal Air Force pilots hollow-eyed from lack of sleep, flying incessantly.

On May 23, Britain's Secretary for the Dominions, Viscount Caldecote, broadcast an appeal to the Dominions. He said:

"One airplane immediately is worth ten in six months time."

The Financial Post reports that Canadian air plan officials have been getting behind in accepting deliveries; that space has had to be rented to "STORE THESE NEW MACHINES FOR WHICH THE AIR PLAN HAS YET TO FIND USE."

By the time this is read, that situation may have been remedied. But it is hard to understand why it ever existed.

The Canadian Minister of Supply, C. D. Howe, replying to criticism of his department's work, told the House of Commons that unwillingness of British industrial firms to part with designs for mechanical equipment used by the British and Canadian armies was to blame for having prevented Canadian industry from playing its full part in manufacturing the sinews of war. That was a grave statement.

Prime Minister Churchill of Britain, the previous week-end, had declared:

"If the battle is to be won, we must provide our men with ever-increasing quantities of the weapons and ammunition they need. They must have, and have quickly, more airplanes, more tanks, more shells, more guns. There is imperative need for these vital munitions."

Is there any wonder that the people of Canada cannot make head or tail out of the official statements on the war effort?

Specific Plan Needed—And Action

The concern of Canadians is this:

WHAT IS THE JOB TO BE DONE?
WHO IS TO DO IT?
WHEN WILL IT BE DONE?

These questions have not yet been answered clearly enough at Ottawa.

It is true that a mass of cost figures have been given the House; that the Minister of Supply,

Mr. Howe, has asked for and instantly received the promise of certain industries to double their efforts; that the new Air Minister, Mr. Power, is a man of energy; that a third division is to be recruited and a small veterans' corps organized for home defense.

But the public have been fed too many generalities.

They want to know how many men are to be enlisted and when and how. They want to know how and when these men are to be equipped.

They want to know how many planes and how many pilots will be overseas by a definite date, and how they can help to get them over.

They want to know if tanks are being built, and if not, why not.

They want to know why, after nine months of war, Canadian industry has not been mobilized to its fullest capacity. The Financial Post quotes one of our biggest industrial executives as saying: "There is a complete lack of comprehensive program. We have offered our facilities to the Government, but no action has been taken." Similar statements have been made to Maclean's by other large industrial firms.

Canadians are demanding a comprehensive, specific plan behind which to throw every ounce of effort.

Explanations that that would be giving assistance to the enemy won't wash forever. The hush-hush policy certainly hasn't given much aid and comfort to the Empire. It has been used too frequently to cloak inefficiency.

And Canadians want proof that every departmental official in control of war work of any kind is fully competent. The proof of competence is ability to get results.

CANADIANS WANT ACTION FROM THEIR GOVERNMENT—NOT A CONTINUOUS ROUND OF DEFENSIVE EXPLANATIONS.

The ultimate responsibility for the part Canada plays or fails to play in this war to the death is on the shoulders of MACKENZIE KING.

ONLY BY IMMEDIATE AND FORCEFUL LEADERSHIP WILL HE SAVE HIMSELF FROM THE WRATH OF AN IMPATIENT PEOPLE.

For the Report, while taking account of possibility of war or any other emergency, was based on a view to a future which will, it is hoped, be in the main one of peace, and it is on its merits with respect to this supposedly peaceful future that the Report must stand or fall. The Commission does not consider that its proposals are either contributing or detrimental to the national effort but believes that they will contribute to the same balance between the two tendencies which is the essence of a genuine federal system and, therefore, the basis on which Canadian national unity can most securely rest.

A behind-the-scenes story of the writing of the report which may become a charter of Re-Confederation

Baby's TEETHING FEVER

When a baby is teething, it's common for them to have a fever, irritability, and swollen gums. Parents should be prepared for these symptoms and know when to seek medical advice.

Baby's Teething Fever
Symptoms and Treatment

Teething is a natural process that every baby goes through. While it can be uncomfortable, it's usually a sign of healthy development. Parents can help ease the discomfort with teething toys and soft foods.

Baby's Teething Fever
What to Expect

Most babies start teething between 6 and 12 months of age. The symptoms can vary, but they usually last for a few days. Parents should keep the baby hydrated and comfortable.

Teething fever is a common occurrence and is usually not a cause for concern. However, if the fever is high or lasts for more than a few days, parents should consult a doctor.

Baby's Teething Fever
Home Remedies

There are several home remedies that can help soothe a teething baby. These include giving them cold teething rings, massaging their gums, and using over-the-counter pain relievers.

It's important to monitor your baby's temperature and behavior during teething. If you're unsure about any symptoms, it's always best to consult with a pediatrician.

Protection Against Wear!

Mobiloil not only retards wear, but also resists carbon,
sludge, "oil drag"
...gives you complete
"Balanced Protection"!

GET RIGHT TO THE "SEAT" of engine trouble with tough, dependable protection! Where precision-fitted engine parts race and churn... that's the place where Mobiloil works best!

It stands up under heats as high as 400° F. . . . resists crushing pressures in clearances less than half the thickness of a cigarette paper!

Here's the point! An oil with only one or two good qualities can't take this punishment. But Mobiloil is made to! It has all four good motor oil qualities . . . retards wear . . . won't thin out dangerously . . . even helps save on gasoline.

Change to Mobiloil. See how it . . .

1. Retards wear. Flows fast at starting temperature; resists thinning under heat.
2. Resists sludge formation. Mobiloil is distilled, refined, dewaxed, filtered.
3. Reduces wasteful "oil drag." Helps you save on gasoline
4. Resists carbon formation by removal of unstable elements.

SOLD BY IMPERIAL OIL DEALERS EVERYWHERE IN CANADA
